Task of Members of Rink Defined

Lead, a Lowly Person, Second a Mere Man, Third, a Gentleman and Skip, an Ideal Curier.

The following are the duties of the various members comprising an average rink of curlers, as outlined by an expert.

The Lead—A Lowly Person

This is a very lowly person who throws the first pair of rocks. He is supposed to thank the Diety once a day in his prayers that he even exists, let alone being allowed to play at bonspiel time. All curlers have served this period of apprenticeship and it is a remarkable fact that 90 per cent of them have never served long enough. He always addresses the skip as "Sir" and the third as "Mr." This lead person is expected to see that four pairs of rocks belonging to his rink are on the ice and cleaned five minutes before the game starts. He must do no less than 75 per cent of the sweeping; he is expected to keep the skip supplied with cigarettes and at bonspiel time to purchase at least one bottle of Scotch essence-per die. This is to be consumed by the rest of the rink and the skip of the rink defeated that day, just one drink per defeated skip. He is not even allowed over the hog line. His curling must be perfect or he is blamed for the loss of all games in which his rink suffers defeat. He may tell the second man what he thinks about the skip, but no one else. After many years he becomes a skip if he survives the sarcasm of his associates.

The Second Player—Mere Man

This person is but a degree removed from the lead. He is expected to do 15 per cent of the sweeping. He also, as the lead, is expected to keep the skip supplied with cigarettes and the third man with matches. He must on all occasions get the rock he is to kick out otherwise he is blamed for losses of games. His chief duty is to see that the lead does not forget to purchase the bottle for the day and in cases of emergency to assist the lead in financing the purchase of this article. He is the one who is allowed to insult the lead, the third and skip, considering it beneath this dignity to address either of them in conversation except in cases of apparent oversight to ask, "Where's the bottle?"

The Third Player—A Gentleman

This gentleman is in a class by himself always. He could skip the rink, in fact he always could skip it far better than the skip doing the job now. He assumes an air of superiority over all leads and seconds and of more condescension to his skip. He does the remaining 10 per cent of the sweeping. He holds the broom for the skip to shoot, and invariably tells the skip that he should have tried the shot he, the third man, had chosen and not the one he, the skip, had just missed. He is the person who uses the chalk for putting up all points made by his side (if any). He then gives the skip the occasional cigarette, lends him a match and gives him a lot of unsolicited advice and generally embarrasses and befuddles the skip as much as possible so that when the game is lost he can say with some apparent justification that he should be skipping. This is the highest compliment you can pay a third man; that he should be a skip. They admit it always but they labor on with an air of martyrdom for the good of the cause. His principle qualification is being able to suggest what brand the lead should purchase for the day's consumption. He is expected to be very "chooney" and see that nothing but the best grades in the largest bottles are procured. He, on occasion, can offer faint words of praise if the skip by superhuman efforts, has pulled the end out of a mess. He never, no never, admits that his rocks have been mis-performed by himself. His work is always played. He has been a hapse of is the fault of the sweepers or gross misjudgement on the part of the sk.

Th Skip—The Ideal Curier

He is a gentlemanly sportsman who gets up the rink, often sacrificing valuable time to the interest and entertainment of three other curlers who wish to play in the bonspiel. He does none of the sweeping, he merely holds the broom and his temper while the rest of the rink miss the one and strain the other. He is supposed to be experienced, and to make all decisions. He must keep a stiff upper lip and not blush when he overhears the rest of the rink giving his character-reading to various onlookers. If, in the case of pure accident, the rest have fallen down badly, he must assume a cheerfulness and endeavor to rake the game out from under and defeat. His chief delight and happiest expectation is to have the privilege of putting on guards with both his rocks. This privilege is always denied him. He has to knock out shots when he can only see an eye-brow. He must draw into the bottom, making it by eighths of inches. He must play a ringer of shot and draw the next. He must take out four rocks with one shot and then lay on the button and generally make himself useful, knowing that if he loses he alone bears the blame. He must have the patience of Job and the aggressiveness of Napoleon, must never complain or he will be classed as a poor sport.—Shannon Standard.

Christmas Seal Sale is $25,000 Short

W. Roscoe, president of the Alberta Tuberculosis Association, announced that provincial Christmas Seal receipts now total $99,630. The 1948 objective is $125,000.

Mr. Roscoe recalled that in 1939, the year the Association was organized, the Seal sale brought in $14,000 in the entire province. He said, "Our income has grown beyond all our expectations, and our service to the public has grown proportionately."

"Nearly 300,000 Albertans have received a free chest X-ray by the provincial department of health, using equipment supplied by us, through Christmas Seals. Our occupational therapy departments in the sanatoria have been of great benefit to more than 1,000 patients, and the rehabilitation branch has given vocational training and other assistance to about 170 patients and ex-patients."

Mr. Roscoe is expected to all citizens of Alberta to enable the Association to reach its objective, which requires another $25,000. He said that the Association hoped to be able to expand its plan of making money grants to more hospitals for routine chest X-ray of all admissions, and also to continue its important health educational program.

Donations are allowable income tax deductions, and receipts will be sent on request. Head office is at 340-7th ave. west Calgary.

Teacher Movement

A total of 95 teachers from other parts of Canada and the British Isles were certified to teach in Alberta during the last 11 months of 1947, compared with 41 teachers who left the province during the same period.

That information was given the Alberta Teachers' Association recently by the deputy minister of the department of education. The 41 teachers leaving here, according to Eric C. Anley, ATA general secretary-treasurer, all applied for certificates to teach in British Columbia. In addition, three teachers applied in Ontario and a fourth moved to Saskatchewan.

Mr. Anley said these figures represented the total actual movement of teachers during 1947, but did not take into account those teachers who entered other lines of work.

Seven of the newcomers to Alberta came from the British Isles: two from Prince Edward Island, three from Nova Scotia, seven from Ontario, ten from Manitoba, six from Saskatchewan and five from British Columbia.

Bellevue Easter Spiel

The Bellevue Curling Club is planning to hold its second annual Easter Bonspiel for four days commencing Easter Friday, March 26, 1948. Seven sheets of artificial ice are guaranteed, it is almost certain that the eighth sheet will be ready also. The "spiel is open to curlers anywhere; last Easter entries came from as far as Creston on the west and Medicine Hat on the east, with only ten days prior announcement. A special invitation is extended to former Past curlers who have left the district and who would like to visit old friends for four days of enjoyable curling, and to all who have not yet experienced the hospitality of the Crown's Nest Pass.

There will be a minimum of three competitors; the entry fee is twelve dollars per team; entries are limited to sixty-four teams; applications will be accepted in the order in which they are received by the Secretary, Bellevue Curling Club.

Eager Beaver, Civil Servant

By virtue of its geographical position, Alberta contains the water shed of all rivers flowing through the three Prairie Provinces. Therefore, we are entrusted with the care of that very valuable water supply, which is so vital to the southern parts of these provinces.

From year to year, new irrigation schemes and systems are being proposed and put into effect in Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba. But these propositions would be of little value if this water shed were improperly maintained. Consider the effect on western economic life if there were heavy run-offs in the spring, causing extensive damage by flood and leaving no more than a mere trickle of water the rest of the year.

In the United States, many districts are spending vast sums in the construction of small dams to store water to prevent flood and to provide against flow. In Alberta, we are handicapped by large area, small population and lack of large funds for such projects; but we do have a co-operative ally in the beaver. Although this creature regarded as a very valuable fur animal, he is also credited with being the finest engineer in the world. People who have studied beaver and their habits will tell you that they construct dams which will withstand flooding conditions, where man-made dams will in many cases break down. The industrious beaver is doing a better conservation job in this province than that being done by the engineers elsewhere.

The department of lands and mines, during the past five years has given every protection to this engineer of the woods. And the beaver population has increased manifold, and vital water, which is required not only for agriculture but for actual existence, is being stored up in our water sheds.

In some of the more settled areas, farmers and ranchers have complained that beaver are doing damage. Therefore the Government has found it necessary to remove them, and put them in areas remote from settlement where they can be of value in water and fur conservation. During the short live-trapping period, crews are at work transporting helpful beaver back to the east slope water shed, there to conserve the supply of vital water. Mr. and Mrs. Beaver don't mind the change. It's their type of country and they start right in at their favorite sport of engineering, so vital to western agriculture.

The colonel asked the newly joined subaltern to stay for a minute or two after the other officers had left the mess, as he wanted a word with him.

"I noticed," he said, "that you drank rather too freely tonight. That won't do. Now you see those four bottles on the table? When you begin to think there are eight bottles, it's time to stop."

"But, sir," objected the junior, "there are only two bottles on the table."

An Objective Of The F.A.O.

SIR JOHN BOYD ORR, in retiring from the position of director of the Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, has, in spite of the returning uncertainty regarding the stability of markets for farm products, firmly stated that "there is no chance for greater world food production than the people need for good health, as far ahead as one can see." It is unlikely that there is anyone in the world better qualified to make such a forecast than this noted British farmer, scientist and nutritionist, who was recently elected to the British House of Commons as member for the Scottish Universities.

Was Known To Many Canadians

Leaving his home in Scotland two years ago, Sir John Boyd Orr, at the age of 64, went to Washington to be the head of the Food and Agriculture Organization, a project in which he was deeply interested. During his time there he became familiar with the problems relating to agriculture in Canada as well as in other countries, and he was well known to many Canadians. In connection with the work of the F.A.O., which is concerned mainly with providing a central-point for the distribution of information regarding the production, distribution and consumption of food, and to promote international co-operation in these matters, Sir John continually stressed the great need for raising standards of nutrition.

Might Avert Future Wars

He further believes that there should be concern not only for those countries where food supplies are low, but also in many places where, in spite of a plentiful supply of food the people are poorly nourished because of lack of proper nutrition. The great problem which has faced the F.A.O. and which has still to be solved, is to ensure that all available food reaches those who need it, and that sufficient is available to have healthful standards of nutrition everywhere. It is obvious that many economic considerations stand in the way of such an achievement, but in the opinion of Sir John Boyd Orr, if such objectives could be reached, there would be little likelihood of future wars.

ADVERSITY

Adversity has ever been considered the state in which a man most easily becomes acquainted with himself, then, especially, being free from flatterers.—Johnson.

The good things of prosperity are to be wished; but the good things that belong to adversity are to be admired.—Seneca.

Adversity is sometimes hard upon a man; but for the man who can stand prosperity, there are a hundred that will stand adversity.—Carlyle.

Outward attacks and troubles rather fix than unsettle the Christian, as tempests from without only serve to rattle the oak more firmly in the ground.—H. More.

Faith visits us in defeat and disappointment, amid the consciousness of earthly frailty and the crumbling tombstones of mortality.—E. H. Chapin.

When You Feel "TIRED" All the Time

When you feel "TIRED" all the time, it may be because your kidneys are weak. The kidneys are the filters of the body, and when they are weak, they cannot filter out the waste products of the body. This causes a build-up of toxins in the blood, which makes you feel tired and sluggish. To keep your kidneys healthy, you should take Dodd's Kidney Pills. They will help you to filter out the waste products of the body and keep your blood clean. This will help you to feel more energetic and healthy.

MAKES FORECAST FOR NEW YEAR

(By Hal Boyle)

NEW YORK.—I am going to unwrap the old crystal ball and give you an advance look at 1948, trusting that everyone kindly has forgotten that nine days before Hiroshima was wiped out I predicted the Japanese war might last another full year.

The forecast is for a strange and exciting year. In fact, frazzled 1948 will be like 1947 hopped up by vitamins.

Here are the prospects: Prices will remain a lot higher than skirts. A genuine T-bone steak of pre-war thickness will be exhibited in the American Museum of Natural History and draw thousands of admiring visitors. It will be flanked by two armed guards.

The slogan of single ladies will be "The new look before you leap" at the bachelors they'll have to propose to since it will be Leap Year.

But "the new look" won't improve with age, and neither will the ladies who wear it. More and more they will come to realize why an open stiletto attracts more people than a tent shoe.

Santa Claus will pension his reindeer and write an anonymous letter to the newspapers complaining he had to pay $500 over the list price to get him a new automobile.

Somewhere a woman driver will hear a knock in her car's motor, stop, open the hood and see coiled inside a rattlesnake. (TMs has happened every year since Henry Ford quit playing marbles.)

A member of the National Association of Manufacturers will send John L. Lewis an eyebrow comb, and George Bernard Shaw will again disclaim any responsibility for mankind.

An attempt to return cut plug to popular favor by developing a new "bubble chewing tobacco" will fail.

A musical diaper will be put on the market that plays "Break the News to Mother" when the baby needs a change.

All in all, however, bears will have more fun than people in 1948. They hibernate.

AUSTRALIAN GIRLS SELL DOLLAR "LOVE NOTES"

SYDNEY.—A Daily Mirror dispatch from Brisbane said that banks are buying more and more dollar bills bearing loving messages from United States servicemen.

"The girls who have been sentimentally treasuring the bills are cashing in at six shillings apiece Australian for each of their love notes," the dispatch said.

"However, some of the more wide awake are shying clear of the banks and selling on the black market for almost twice that amount, washing up a war-time romance with a nice profit."

BUSINESS FAILURES UP IN CANADA

OTTAWA.—Business failures for the third quarter of 1947 rose to 136 compared with 64 in the same period last year and the highest for the period since 1942, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported. Failures in the third quarter of 1942 were 173, in 1940, 256 and in 1939, 343.

WINNIPEG MAN TO JOIN STAFF OF GEN. ODUM

OTTAWA.—Colonel John F. Bingham, CBE, of Winnipeg, has been appointed Canadian military attaché at the Canadian embassy in Turkey. He will join the staff of General Victor Odum. Since 1946, Colonel Bingham has been stationed in Ottawa as a director of army cadets.

REWARD FOR BOY WHO SAVED PREMIER'S LIFE—Rewarding alertness, Greek Premier Themistokles Sophoulis smiles as he reaches for a gift for the 14-year-old boy who spotted a mine on a railway line just before the premier's train arrived. FUNNY

And

OTHERWISE

"These sausages you eat me sawy meat at one end and breadcrumbs at the other," said Mrs. Andrews. "Yes, madam," replied the butcher, "in these hard times it is difficult to make both ends meet."

"I ordered a dozen oranges, but you only sent me ten." "Part of our service, madam. Two were bad, so we saved you the trouble of throwing them away."

Caller: "I am so sorry your mistress is out. Do you think she will be at home this evening?" Maid: "She'll have to be; it's my night out."

"Mary," said Mrs. Smythe, making final arrangements for a big party, "I want you to stand at the drawing-room door and call the guests' names as they enter."

"Thank you, madam," said Mary. "I've been wanting to do that for years."

At church parade the padre had spoken about the wages of sin and had freely quoted the Ten Commandments.

Coming out of the churchyard, the black sheep of the regiment, thought deeply for a few moments, then turned to his pal.

"Ah, well," he said, "I've never made a grave image, anyway."

Mother: I told you just now to stop that noise! John: I know, but this isn't the same noise. I was playing the drum then, but I'm blowing my whistle now!

Tom: "Then our engagement is broken?" Mabel: "It is. Shall I send back your letters?" Tom: "No I've improved a lot. I can do better in writing to the next girl I meet."

"Oh, well," the husband remarked philosophically, "When all is said and done..." "When all is said and done..." what?" asked his wife.

"When all is said and done, there's been a lot more said than done."

Wife: "You don't make a silk purse out of a sow's ear." Husband: "No, but a woman can get a mink coat out of an old goat."

Pat (out duck-hunting): "Don't shoot Mike. The gun's not loaded." Mike: "I've got to. The duck won't wait."

Old Lady (at the zoo): "Is that a man-eating lion?" Fed-up Keeper: "Yes, lady, but we'd keep of men this week, so all he gets is beef."

"Do you think there's any truth in that 'There is honor among thieves' thing?" "I should say not. I don't think they are 'one bit better than other people'."

He: "Honey, I've bought something for the one I love best. Guess what?" She: "A box of cigars."

Golfer: "Dear, dear, I'm certainly not playing the game I used to play." Caddie (disgustedly): "What game was that?"

PRINCESS SENDS THANKS FOR GIFTS

OTTAWA.—Prime Minister Mackenzie King read to the house of commons a letter of thanks from Princess Elizabeth for the wedding presents received from Canada.

The letter read: "I am most grateful to the government and people of Canada for the wedding present of such remarkable generosity which they have sent me. They have given me a collection of silver so magnificent, both in quality and in quantity, that my pride in its possession is only equalled by my pleasure that the people of Canada should have seen fit to express their goodwill toward me in this way."

"Not content with this splendid present they have sent me in addition a mink coat of absolute perfection. Whenever I wear it, as I very often shall, it will remind me of the moving tributes and marks of affection which have reached me from all over Canada during these last few weeks and which have left a very deep impression on me."

"I look forward to the day when the Duke of Edinburgh and I will be able to visit Canada, to thank its citizens in person for their kindness towards us, and to learn to know the country and the people as we most earnestly desire to do."

ALBERTA SESSION OPENS FEB. 12

EDMONTON.—Premier E. Manning has announced that Feb. 12, has been set as a tentative date for the opening of the fifth session of the Alberta legislature.

He declined to comment on whether it would be the last session of the present legislature in view of unofficial forecasts of a general provincial election in 1948.

Many French Anxious To Live In Canada

More Than 300 Inquiries Made Daily At Canadian Embassy

PARIS.—Post-war restlessness and uncertainty have shaken even the Frenchman's deep-rooted passion for his land, and an ever-increasing number are seeking to migrate to North or South America.

More than 300 inquiries, either by letter or personal call, are made daily at the Canadian embassy here. Some have tragic tales to tell of homes shattered by the war, leaving them rootless in their own country. Others fear the trend of events in France and Europe. Some are young, some are old, even at the age of retirement.

Only about 350 a month get the coveted Canadian visas. Many miss out because they cannot arrange transportation across the Atlantic.

Employment requirements in Canada and rigid health regulations eliminate many others.

Currency restrictions are a further discouragement. The French government allows emigrants only $300 each.

"On the whole we get a very fine type of applicant and I'm sure those going forward will make good Canadian citizens," said A. J. Desjardins of Ottawa and Montreal, chief of the Canadian immigration service for France.

Most of the emigrants select Quebec as their destination because of the language problem.

MORE WASHING MACHINES NOW BEING PRODUCED

OTTAWA.—Housewives, you needn't worry that hubby may not be able to get you a washing machine if you have been hinting for one as there are twice as many as last year.

There were 21,701 washing machines produced in October compared with 22,328 in September and 11,433 in October, 1946, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported. For the 10 months of 1947, 173,727 units were produced compared with 99,044 in 1946.

LONDON.—London's largest exhibition of Royal wedding photographs at Dorland Hall tells the story of the wedding with more than 100 specially selected photographs, many of them life-size. Exhibits include Norman Hartnell's original color sketches of the dresses. Proceeds go to the Soldiers', Sailors', Airmen's Families Association.

S.A. DIAMONDS IN GREAT DEMAND BY U.S.

JOHANNESBURG.—United States demand for South African diamonds is rising to fever pitch, jewellery trade sources here say. One parcel of stones to be taken to the United States was valued at $10,000 ($40,000) but far bigger deals than that are going through, jewellers report.

MOONSHINE

There was a time, when young Pieter was Janesveld took it for granted that everybody could see water underground. He could. One day, when he was still very young, Pieter saw his father digging a well in a corner of the family farm beneath which there was obviously (to Pieter) no water. Pieter suggested another spot. His father tried it and, struck a cool, clear gusher. Pieter nodded wisely. Some years later his school teacher lost a gold ring under the sand and Pieter found it for him with a single glance. Ever since then Pieter (now 16) has been kept busy peering through rock and sod in search of underground treasure.

He can wax lyrical over what he sees. "Water," says Pieter, "seems to give off vibrations which appear like beams of moonlight striking through a window pane. A gold reef appears like a black ridge. Diamonds give off individual vibrations. I cannot explain them." At Johannesburg mining syndicate was well content to let the explanations go, provided Pieter's sharp eyes continued to seek out treasures. They put the boy under contract as a dowsing.

Three weeks ago Pieter was on his way to Tanganyika on a dowsing expedition. En route he stopped at a hotel in Salisbury, the capital of Southern Rhodesia. Pieter wanted a shower. But peer as he would, Pieter could see no moonbeams glinting from the plumbing in his hotel bathroom. Salisbury was in the midst of an acute water shortage. Pieter called his manager. The manager called the mayor, who just then was sitting, racking his brains over the water crisis, in a tub containing two meager inches of water. When Pieter's manager offered to help, the mayor leaped at the chance, bundled the boy into a car and drove round the town. Finally Pieter spotted some moonbeams. A skeptical but desperate city council set their engineers to work.

Last week, after drilling for 18 days through 140 odd feet of hard rock the engineers hit water. Salisbury, announced the mayor proudly, was now assured of at least 403,200 gallons a week.—Time Magazine.

An actor had his choice. He could marry a movie queen or an ugly woman who was a wonderful cook.

The morning after the wedding, he woke up and looked at his sleeping wife.

One look was enough. He shook her and said: "Cook something QUICK."

A COSY HOME is cosier still when you serve Maxwell House Coffee. So delicious it satisfies completely. Expert blending assures you coffee that's famous for smooth, mellow flavor.

It is interesting to read how some of the early writers on the Cranbrook Herald have emerged as world figures. Matthew Halton, born at Pincher Creek, as a young fellow was a correspondent for the Herald from his home town and tells of his delight when he saw his first story in print. He says, "When I got my first monthly cheque of $16 and a few cents, I was wealthy beyond my dreams." Another early writer for the Herald was Wilfrid Eggleston, now Ottawa editor for The Toronto Saturday Night. Eggleston was a rural school teacher in Alberta in the early days.—F. J. S. in Cranbrook Courier.

KEEP CALM

The well, and well-poised, person has all emotions under control, is calm and not easily disturbed. So, says the department of national health and welfare, chronic crossness and irritability is a sure sign of poor health, and the person who persistently "flies off the handle" should see the family doctor, while admitting that everyone has "off-days", the health authorities declare that no one should be grouchy all the time.

What You Should Know about TRAVEL RATIONING

Why?

Canada's supply of U.S. dollars will no longer stretch far enough to permit all the purchases of goods and services or all the travel in the United States that has taken place in the past. It is, therefore, necessary to reduce our expenditures of U.S. dollars in many different ways. As one of these steps, the Government has decided that the use of U.S. dollars for pleasure travel spending must be reduced. To ensure this reduction in a way that is fair to all, an annual "travel ration" has been established. As in the past — a Form H permit is required by anyone taking out of Canada more than $10 U.S. or more than a total of $25 in Canadian and foreign currencies.

Pleasure Travel

Regulations now provide that the maximum amount of U.S. dollars which any Canadian resident may obtain for pleasure travel purposes is $150 per year. In the case of children of eleven years and under, the amount is $100. There is no restriction on the number of trips as long as this annual allotment is not exceeded. Any U.S. dollars obtained for one trip and not used on that trip must be brought back to Canada and exchanged for Canadian dollars at a bank immediately on return. No credit for these funds can be allowed against the annual ration for subsequent trips.

Personal Purchases of U.S. Goods

A Canadian tourist should remember that the new restrictions applying to imports from the United States govern his personal purchases there. He may not bring back any merchandise which has now been prohibited or which may now only be imported on a quota basis. The list of goods covered by the new import restrictions is on extensive one. Tourists contemplating any particular purchase in the United States would be wise, before leaving the country, to ask Canadian Customs Officials if this purchase will be admitted.

Come And See Us At Work, Farmers

"Let There Be Light" Between Us

You've heard a lot of untruthful things said about The Winnipeg Grain Exchange and its Members and operations. But we should like you to come in and see us personally and discover how our Members operate for your benefit. Ask questions of the President or the Secretary, or any other Member. You will get straight answers. The more you know about The Exchange, the less likely you are to be influenced by Pool propaganda against The Exchange; and the quicker you will want to get top world prices for your wheat, instead of a controlled price far below the open market price.

"Let there be light" between you and us. We are your agents. You cannot travel from China to Peru to sell grain. Our Members do that for you, in more than sixty countries of the world.

And remember, we have no more to do with "fixing" prices for wheat, oats or barley than you have. World supply and demand governs prices. You, as a well-informed man, know this.

You and our Members are in the grain business together. You produce it—we find markets for it. Without you, we could not exist (neither could the Pools). Without us, how could you find markets?

We favour a floor price for wheat administered by the Canadian Wheat Board—but we think you should have the opportunity to get top world prices, through the open market, NOW to offset possible lower prices a few years from now, when world supply overtakes demand; and also to offset the losses you took in the depressed thirties. Meantime mail the coupon below for a booklet explaining the Canadian Wheat Board Act and how you are regulated and controlled by it.

GIVING THE PEOPLE WHAT THEY DEMAND

The late William Aberhart laid it down as a fundamental of Democracy that the people must state loudly and clearly the results which they want, and that they must hold the government responsible for getting those results for them.

The Alberta Educational Council, which last year led a campaign on behalf of increased Government financial support of education and which is just commencing a similar effort this year, believes that people of Alberta want a big return in the financing of elementary and secondary education. Leaving out anything which may have been submitted to the Judge Commission, they know that responsible bodies everywhere are in revolt against steadily rising school levies on real property. Some municipalities are beginning to starve other services to keep up with school costs, other municipalities were verbally spanked by the minister of municipal affairs last fall for running on a deficit.

The people of Alberta realize that the school population of this province is based upon the universal tendency of young people to get married and make families. Nothing could be "broader-based" than that. It is clear that the system of taxation necessary to provide the money to educate these children should be just as broadly based.

EYE HEALTH

Since it is normal to feel tired at the end of the day, our eyes need rest as much as our body functions. But, authorities tell us that the eyes should not feel unduly uncomfortable during waking hours. Normal eyes, used under good lighting conditions, need not develop strain. If they do, the doctor should be asked to examine them to determine whether glasses are needed, or what other corrective measures should be taken.

Tight clothing may prevent circulation, but any modern girl can tell you that is what keeps her circulating.

Arriving at a strange hotel, a fussy woman thought she'd better know where the fire escape was. So she started exploring. During her tour she opened a door and found herself in a bathroom occupied by an elderly gentleman. "Oh, I'm sorry," she exclaimed. "I was looking for the fire escape."

Continuing her search, she presently heard the pad of bare feet behind her, and a shout made her turn. It was the elderly gentleman clad in a bath towel. "Wait a minute," he gasped, "where's the fire?"

Mrs. George: "Hello, dear. How's the pain in the neck?"

Mrs. Young: "Oh, he's out curling."

SHE KIDNAPPED HIM, HE SAYS—Clement Hoskins, (right), is shown as he told Philadelphia police that Joyce Brown, (left), 22-year-old mother, kidnapped and robbed him. He said he gave her a lift in his car when she pleaded illness. In the car, he said, she drew a gun, ordering him to drive to his home. She looted it of clothing and furnishings, he said, then drove off. She was ordered held without bail.

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY

THE STRATEGIST

By DONALD J. MacLEOD

GLOOM hung like a fog over the small room. Both Joe Winsor and his sister Anne fixed their eyes on the pale green door of their mother's room. Silently the door opened and a shadow detached itself from the doorway. Dr. Miller stood before them and shook his head.

"I'm sorry, Joe, sorry Anne. She's gone."

Anne put her face in her hands and her red hair spilled over her shoulders. Joe suddenly eyed his sister as he pulverized his cigarette. Dr. Miller put his arm around Anne. "She didn't suffer, Anne, she went quickly. Have a good cry, you'll feel better."

"Sure, let her cry, Doc," Joe said brusquely. "She fought with Ma for years." He lit a fresh cigarette and strode from the room.

When Anne got home, Bill Carson was sprawled on the sofa like a collapsed parachute. He had his fedora pulled over his face and an unpleasant odor floated above him. Anne slumped in the easy chair. Bill shifted his hat back on his head and squinted.

"Where yuh been, over at your old lady's again?"

Anne winced. "Please, Bill. You needn't worry about Mother bothering you again. She's dead."

Anne's voice was black coffee to his fogged brain. A his bloodshot eyes rounded around the room and rested on his wife.

"Dead, huh? Well, who yuh gots fight with now?"

"You're the only reason Mother and I quarreled. Mother warned me but I thought if you loved me enough you'd stop drinking."

Bill fumbled to find his tie and brush the hair out of his eyes.

"That's?" Bill said. "What a pretty speech. Let me tell yuh one thing: just one thing, I'm as good as that Jimmy Sharpe. If I'm not why'n yuh marry him? Just tell little Bill the answer to that one, just tell me."

Anne passed her hand across her forehead. "Bill, please. I don't feel like going over all that again. I'm going to lie down awhile."

"Yah, go ahead. Lie down as long as yuh want. Yuh didn't answer little Bill, did yuh? I'm gots get some air..."

Bill weaved to the door, fumbled for the knob and carefully pulled it behind him.

Anne sighed, kicked off her pumps and slipped the flowered gown over her head. She slid beneath the cool sheets and closed her eyes. The years began to march before her.

It was many years back, she couldn't have been more than when Dad died and Mother started planning her life and Joe's. That was the trouble. Mother planned every detail, where they went, whom they associated with. Joe had always been Mother's little white-haired boy — he never questioned her plans.

A few more years flustered past and Mother began to suggest Jimmy would make a good husband. Anne liked Jimmy, it wasn't just because they'd gone to school together, it was something deeper. She had rebelled, not because he was only a grocery clerk but perhaps because mother had picked him out. It seemed like yesterday she had been in the kitchen helping Mother with the dishes.

"Jimmy was wondering if you'd go roller-skating Saturday night, Anne."

"First I've heard of it, Mother. Anybody I'm going out with Bill Carson."

"Jimmy phoned when you were out, dear. That Carson boy isn't good for you, he drinks."

"Not too much. I can arrange my own dates, Mother."

"I know, Anne, but Jimmy's such a nice boy."

Anne threw the tea towel on the rack.

"You've said it a million times. Mother. I'm sick of hearing it. Bill loves me and I'm going to marry him."

Anne still remembered the hurt that came into her mother's eyes. After the wedding, just before they left on their honeymoon, Anne noticed a strange look in her eyes. Anne laughed uneasily.

"Don't worry, Mother, we'll be happy."

Their marriage had been a series of seasons making black coffee and bailing Bill out of jail. Bill was penniless each time, like a little boy who'd been caught stealing apples.

"It won't happen again, Anne. I promise."

The laughter in his eyes was contagious.

"You always say the same thing, Bill."

"Yes, Bill."

"I love you, I love you, I love you."

The words rolled on and on, growing fainter and fainter until they became a whisper. Anne sighed as sleep came.

Lawyer Ezra Snape adjusted his spectacles as he peered at the relatives of the late Mrs. Winsor. Anne dreaded the reading of the will, hadn't her mother caused her enough embarrassment? Anne thought the relatives looked like a bunch of vultures. Ezra's voice was droning on, "...and to my daughter, Anne, I leave my entire estate in the amount of $10,000."

Anne felt the heavy silence, Joe's surprised look and the stares of the vultures as she got and left the room.

Even after she got home Anne couldn't believe it, neither could Bill. "If you'll stop drinking, Bill, you can have $5,000 for yourself."

Bill beamed. "Anne, I'll do it, so help me. This time I'm serious."

It was four drinks and one month later that the telephone rang.

"Mrs. Carson?"

"Yes?"

"Anne, Hotel here, your husband's in our cocktail bar, he's hurt..."

"How bad, tell me..."

"He's dead, Mrs. Carson."

The room turned, twisted, then began to spin around and around. Anne averted, tried to stand but was sucked into the vortex.

Jimmy called around later to see if he could do anything to help.

"What's the answer, Jimmy?"

Anne said.

"The answer to what, Anne?"

"To life."

Jimmy stood for a moment looking at her, then put his big hand over hers. "Don't try to understand now, Anne."

It took Anne two years to find out she needed Jimmy. She smiled to herself as she nestled in his arms and felt the pressure of his lips against hers. Who but her mother could have planned such happiness?

"You always say the same thing, Bill."

"Yes, Bill."

"I love you, I love you, I love you."

The words rolled on and on, growing fainter and fainter until they became a whisper. Anne sighed as sleep came.

Lawyer Ezra Snape adjusted his spectacles as he peered at the relatives of the late Mrs. Winsor. Anne dreaded the reading of the will, hadn't her mother caused her enough embarrassment? Anne thought the relatives looked like a bunch of vultures. Ezra's voice was droning on, "...and to my daughter, Anne, I leave my entire estate in the amount of $10,000."

Anne felt the heavy silence, Joe's surprised look and the stares of the vultures as she got and left the room.

Even after she got home Anne couldn't believe it, neither could Bill. "If you'll stop drinking, Bill, you can have $5,000 for yourself."

Bill beamed. "Anne, I'll do it, so help me. This time I'm serious."

It was four drinks and one month later that the telephone rang.

"Mrs. Carson?"

"Yes?"

"Anne, Hotel here, your husband's in our cocktail bar, he's hurt..."

"How bad, tell me..."

U.S. May Lease Land For B.C. Highway

Canada May Have 99-Year Lease On 15 Miles in Washington State

VICTORIA, B.C. — Canada may have a 99-year lease on 15 miles of United States land in the State of Washington — when plans are completed for construction of Victory highway as part of the southern trans-provincial road system.

Works Minister E. C. Carson has been granted permission to put surveyors in the field in Washington state next spring to map the route.

The highway would cut south from Grand Forks, B.C., swing through American territory close to the international border, and cut back into British Columbia, near Rossland.

It would eliminate 53 miles of tortuous, mountain-side ride, climbs over two summits, and would save $2,000,000 in construction costs.

Final decision on leasing-terms will have to come through negotiations on the highest diplomatic level at Ottawa and Washington, D.C., but it has been suggested a 99-year lease would be preferable. The highway territory ceded outright.

SNIFFED, FOUND ROBBERIES

LOOT—When two men were reported acting suspiciously about 20 miles from the scene of robbery at Stranraer, Sask., two R.C.M.P. dogs, Tell and Ignatz, were taken to the area to pick up the scent. Within a few hours Tell had located both men—F. Baker and J. Johnson, well-known criminals, according to the R.C.M.P.—hiding in patches of brush and long grass.

The second dog, Ignatz, shown here, sniffed out an old sock near where Baker had been hiding. The sock contained the $500 stolen cash, a bottle of explosive and a detonator.

Mennonites To Quit Canada

Twenty-Three Families To Leave Central Saskatchewan For Paraguay

GOULDSTOWN, Sask. — Twenty-three Mennonite families will leave this west central Saskatchewan district for a new life in a new continent as soon as they can arrange transportation.

Numbering approximately 90, they will join more than 2,000 from Mennonite communities at Halstead and Altona, Man., in a migration that will carry them more than 4,000 miles to central Paraguay in South America.

Most of them belong to the Sommerfeld sect, one of the four sects of the Mennonite Church, whose history has been marked by frequent migrations in search of religious freedom. Some of the migrants came from Russia in the original Mennonite influx into Canada between 1870 and 1872, but most of them are children of the original settlers and were born in Mennonite communities scattered between Moose Jaw and Swift Current, Sask.

No definite reason for the migration has been given, but such moves are not considered uncommon. Shortly before the war a group left the Swift Current area for Mexico. Most of the Gouldtown group already have disposed of their property and are ready to leave when transportation and passports are arranged.

The sect originated in Holland in the 17th century and migrated first to Prussia, then to Russia, to escape the bitter persecution that followed it. When they became liable in Russia to military service, which they have always refused on religious grounds, they came to North America.

In South America they plan to establish the same type of communal farming village they built in the West during the early days of settlement.

First printer in the western hemisphere was Giovanni Paoli of Mexico City, in 1539.

FOUR NEW PARK SITES NAMED

VICTORIA, B.C. — The provincial cabinet, by order-in-council named four park sites in the interior of the province.

They are: 20 acres on the west bank of the Kootenay River near Windermere; 357 acres near Cinnemous Narrows on Shuswap Lake; 20 acres on the west shore of Shuswap Lake, 10 miles north of Sicamous; eight acres on Green Lake in the Lillooet district.

Farming Note

TOKYO. — Farmer Yoshinori Yokowu, of nearby Okayama went to a doctor to have an unhusked grain of rice removed from his eye.

The doctor took a long look and then removed a growing rice shoot.

RADAR SUCCESSFULLY USED IN DUST STORM

LOS ANGELES. — Dust was so thick in Los Angeles harbor that the liner Matamoros had to use radar to find its dock. The Weather Bureau called it a Santa Ana dust storm. In some areas, it hit 60 miles an hour, it whistled down from the mountain passes to settle over the harbor like pea soup.

Life Insurance in 1947

More than one-third of Canada's 12,000,000 people, 4,500,000 in number, hold life insurance policies. Assuming that each policyholder has at least one dependent, two out of every three persons in the Dominion are personally interested in the protection afforded by life insurance.

New life insurance put in force during 1947 totalled over 11,400,000,000, an amount slightly greater than the previous record high reached in 1946. At the end of the year, the mantle of life insurance protection covering policyholders and their beneficiaries in Canada totalled more than $12,000,000,000, just around one billion dollars less than the Dominion's net national debt. The corresponding assets of Canadian life insurance companies approximated $3,900,000,000, representing an increase of six per cent during the year.

During the year too, the life insurance companies paid over $180,000,000 to beneficiaries in death claims and to living policyholders in matured endowments, surrender values, dividends and other benefits.

These facts and figures were contained in the year-end review of Presi-

You'll find that EATON merchandise has dependability as well as the kind of dollar-stretching value Canadians demand.

One of the reasons—an important one—is the EATON RESEARCH BUREAU. Staffed by a group of chemists, textile analysts and technicians, it checks the descriptions against the goods described in the huge Mail Order Catalogue. Nothing is too small, nothing too large to merit the Bureau's closest attention—a safeguard to seller and buyer alike, and a very solid reason why

From now on, month by month

YOUR WAR SAVINGS CERTIFICATES can be cashed!

The payoff on War Savings Certificates has begun. Right now all War Savings Certificates issued in May 1940 are being redeemed by the Canadian Government at their full face value.

On or after December 15th, you can redeem all War Savings Certificates issued in June 1940 . . . and so on, month by month, for the next few years.

If you are among the thrifty people who own War Savings Certificates, NOW is the time to look them over, sort them out by months and as they fall due, endorse them and mail to Ottawa as described on the back of each Certificate. A cheque for the full face value of each Certificate will be sent to you in due course.

But here is another suggestion . . .

Have The Royal Bank of Canada do all this "office work" and sorting for you. Save yourself the bother of searching out the right pieces of paper each month, endorsing them and mailing them off to Ottawa.

Here's what you do: Bring all your War Savings Certificates which you have at home or in your safe deposit box, to your nearest Royal Bank Branch. We will put them in our vaults for safekeeping.

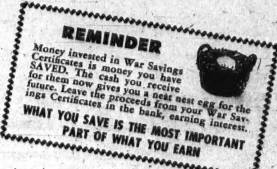

As the Certificates fall due, we will cash them for you and deposit the full face value (which includes interest) in the savings account of the registered owner, automatically. If you have no account with us, we will open one for you for this purpose.

The cost of this service, including safekeeping until your Certificates mature, is low, as the following table shows.

SAFEKEEPING CHARGES FOR WAR SAVINGS CERTIFICATES, INCLUDING AUTOMATIC REDEMPTION WHEN DUE—

For each	$5 Certificate	15¢
" "	$10	20¢
" "	$25	25¢
" "	$50	30¢
" "	$100	35¢
" "	$500	$1.05

• If your Certificates are already lodged with us for safekeeping, we will arrange for their automatic redemption, as described above, at a nominal charge of 5¢ per Certificate, regardless of the face value.
